Skywarn Class

Due to ongoing federal restrictions due to COVID-19, unfortunately we will not be able to hold any in-person Skywarn Spotter Training sessions this season. We hope to return with a hybrid of virtual and in-person opportunities in the Fall. We will be offering four virtual Skywarn Spotter Training Sessions into early March.

IDSS Forecast Point

At this link, you can get forecast information for a user identified point anywhere in your county or parish on a day-by-day, hour-by-hour basis. The interface is pretty self-explanatory, but you can get a world of forecast information for your location with just a few clicks. This is a great tool if you have outdoor activities and would like to know when the best chances for rain are during the day/night along with specific temperature information during a specified timeframe.

Graphical Hazardous Weather Outlook

(<https://www.weather.gov/erh/ghwo?wfo=shv>)

This experimental page is a decision support service for your situational awareness that supports preparedness and response efforts prior to and during hazardous weather. This service provides decision makers with convenient access to potential weather hazard information by graphically depicting the risk of weather hazards out through seven days.
